“Everyone has to have a hometown...
Binghamton’s Mine” -Rod Serling

Rod Serling (1924-1975)

Binghamton Native, Writer, Producer, Teacher

Known primarily for his role as the host of television’s The Twilight Zone, Rod Serling had one of the most exceptional and varied careers in television. As a writer, a producer, and for many years a teacher, Serling constantly challenged the medium of television to reach for loftier artistic goals.

After a brief career in radio, Serling entered television in 1951, penning scripts for several programs including Hallmark Hall of Fame and Playhouse 90, at a time when the medium was referred to as “The Golden Age.”

In 1955, Kraft Television Theatre presented Serling’s teleplay Patterns and it changed both television as well as Rod Serling’s life, winning him his first of six Emmy awards. The script established Serling as a rarity: a television playwright.

In October of 1959, CBS aired the first episode of a groundbreaking series, “The Twilight Zone.” Serling fought hard for creative control, and became television’s first writer/ producer. The series incorporated Serling’s deep progressive social and moral views. This iconic series ran for five seasons winning numerous awards and critical acclaim for Serling and his artistic staff and provided a training ground for some of our most gifted actors.

The winner of more Emmy Awards for dramatic writing for television than anyone in history, Serling expressed a deep social conscience in nearly everything he did. Some of his most well know works include:

- Requiem for a Heavyweight (1956)
- The Twilight Zone (1959-1964)
- Planet of the Apes (1968)
- Night Gallery (1970-1973)

In June 1975, Rod Serling died of a heart attack. Today, many years after his death, Serling’s legacy continues to grow. His television and cinematic works have reached iconic status enlivening a new interest in one of the great early pioneers of American television.

Another great source for information is the Rod Serling Memorial Foundation. Founded in 1986, the foundation is dedicated to the promotion and preservation of Serling’s contributions to the Arts and Humanities.

Carousels

Discover Broome County's Time Machines in the Carousel Capital of the World!

Between 1919 and 1934, George F. Johnson (1857-1948), shoe manufacturer and great benefactor, donated six beautiful carousels to our local parks. Johnson's commitment to recreation was always more than just good business. He felt carousels contributed to a happy life and would help youngsters grow into strong and useful citizens. Because of his own poor childhood, "George F." believed carousels should be enjoyed by everyone and insisted that the municipalities never charge money for a magic ride.

Now, into their tenth decade, these magnificent machines still spin from Memorial Day through Labor Day at no charge, or for an admission of "one piece of litter." In a day when nothing is free, we boast the world's greatest entertainment bargain!

Our carousels (we've always called them "merry-go-rounds"), were all manufactured by the Allan Herschell Company of North Tonawanda, New York, in the "country fair" style. You can still hear the sounds of the original Wurlitzer Band Organs on the Recreation and Ross Park carousels. And, if you are lucky enough to ride on all six merry-go-rounds, you will be delighted by monkey chariots, horses with hidden lions in the saddle blankets, a pig, and even a dog. Not to worry, every carousel animal in Greater Binghamton is a "jumper"! You can "Ride the Carousel Circuit" by collecting a card at each carousel, and when you have all six you'll receive a special button. What is even more remarkable is that of 150 wood-carved carousels remaining in the United States and Canada, six are right here in Greater Binghamton, New York!

All six carousels are placed on the New York State Historic Register and National Register of Historic Places and restoration projects over the years attest to the commitment of our community to preserve these cultural legacies for future generations to enjoy.
